Bangkok Hospital Medical Center (BMC) is one of the biggest hospitals in Thailand providing tertiary healthcare. It was known as one of the most technologically sophisticated hospitals in the world. BMC is an expansive state-of-the-art medical campus providing comprehensive medical care through multidisciplinary teams of highly trained specialists. With its four hospitals, Bangkok Hospital (BGH), Bangkok International Hospital (BIH), Bangkok Heart Hospital (BHT), Wattanosoth Cancer Hospital (WSH) and broad range of specialised clinics, BMC is equipped with all of the diagnostic and treatment facilities not generally available at local hospitals.

In 2007, the center has received Joint Commission International accreditation and is known throughout the world for delivering world-class, award-winning healthcare. The hospital was established in 1972 by a group of doctors and pharmacists, and began with a staff of 5 specialists and 30 full-time nurses. Today, Bangkok Hospital has more than 650 full-time and consultant physicians along with 750 nurses.

Sodexo has been the support services partner to Bangkok Hospital since June 2006, starting with the success of food services provided to BMC including in-patient meals, staff cafeteria, public cafeteria and catering for events and functions. Sodexo then quickly expanded providing more support services from an energy audit, to technical facilities management services to laundry services.

With the impressive energy audit result Sodexo identified a remarkable annual energy savings initiatives of 22.3 percent for BMC. Today, Sodexo manages the technical facilities management covering a total of 160,000 gross square meters of floor area. Through Sodexo's technical facilities management services, which focuses on a strong and comprehensive planned and predictive maintenance; and an energy management program, Sodexo has been able to successfully achieve real annual energy consumption reduction in excess of 20% from the same period of a year before.

With the support services provided by Sodexo and the focus on providing excellent medical services of BMC, BMC was granted a JCI accreditation by Joint Commission International (JCI) in July 2007.

Today, Sodexo has over 230 full-time staff operating at BMC. Everyday, Sodexo ensures that the services provided to BMC run smoothly and efficiently to support BMC in being a world-class hospital.
